

While working on this assignment, I could have reduced the amount of time I spent on it by starting the assignment earlier and taking better notes in class.

Additionally, I could've followed the development process better to reduce time spent stuck on little things.

I'm not sure what the staff could have done to improve my learning experience with this homework. I already had a great experience.

I loved this homework! It was fun using previous assignments to implement the application, and the application itself is really cool! It's fun to use datasets from RPI.
